Full Stack Developer (m/f/x)

Full-time position in FinTech Startup Levaro
From March 2020

We are Levaro

Levaro is a young start-up from Munich with the vision to bring the finance department into the 21st century. After a validation phase with more than 80 companies, we developed a novel concept for a SaaS solution last year that digitalizes internal financial processes in SMEs, automating areas such as credit card payments, invoice approvals and expense reports.

Following a successful test phase with the first pilot customers, we are officially launching the solution in March 2020. We are in the current accelerator program of the LMU Entrepreneurship Center and are about to close the first financing round with renowned investors.

As part of the official launch, we are looking for a talented full stack developer to help us bring Levaro to the next level. Join us if you are passionate about first-class products, want to solve real customer problems and build one of the world's leading companies in FinTech with us!

Your tasks

- ✓ Building new product features from start to finish in backend as well as frontend
- ✓ Involvement in the entire process, from conception and research to 3rd level support and maintenance
- ✓ Implementation of complex requirements in user stories
- ✓ Assurance of high quality for tests, programming and code reviews
- ✓ Flexible division of work and the offer to turn your own concepts and ideas into reality

Your skills

- ✓ Completed studies in computer science, business informatics or comparable, alternatively training as an IT specialist
- ✓ Full stack experience including mobile development, web engineering as well as experience in restful API development ideally including React and NodeJS
- ✓ Fluent in JavaScript
- ✓ Enthusiasm for startups and programming
- ✓ Ability to approach people openly and work reliably in a team
- ✓ Motivated, creative and independent working style

That sounds like you and we have aroused your interest? Then take off!

We look forward to receiving your detailed application by e-mail to apply@levaro.io
